

One of the main challenges ~~set~~ of setting up a monitoring protocol

A monitoring protocol should be set crafted to empower grass people by making transferring efforts to information that is shareable, reliable and shorable. This purpose is related to quality of monitoring but not equivalent. The very best standards of monitoring are always striving for ~~improvement~~, one reviewed ~~the distinction as they~~ ~~are reviewed whether simpler~~, and difficult to define. They may also be relevant for or inaccessible technology or equipment which some people will have and others will not. Now pertinent is the fact that ~~a series~~ people have limited and unpredictable availability. Ultimately, this protocol is a person-centered people-centered, informed by ecology and scientific practice, and by the science of field ecology.

~~Method~~ which are too demanding ~~on rigorous~~ will be self-defeating. The concepts of gauging and rigor must be centered on people, and they need to be accessible on the ground. This protocol will therefore focus on exploring and articulating the different ways surveys can be done, and ~~of supply~~ supplying the exact outcomes of such surveys. Most of the info. is common sense: some ~~to long~~ spent without checking a nest-site means an important event might be missed; a last survey worth giving more effort, it gives more information, certainly above in combination with a daytime survey, ^{to give more confidence} ~~to give more confidence~~ ^{when the} ~~when the~~ occupation from the daytime survey alone, ^{is a more} ~~is a more~~ ^{thoroughly} ~~thoroughly~~ ^{likely to} ~~likely to~~
